SYNTHETIC INDUSTRIAL MANUAL

OptiFlow 200 | Demonstration only

An automated laboratory instrument transports liquid samples using a microfluidic pump. An optical detector measures fluorescence in a flow cell. A temperature controller regulates the reaction chamber.

Software calibrates detector signals and flags measurement drift.

This is synthetic, non-confidential material.